“My Cup Runneth Over” Friday

The table was set for a smorgasbord Friday and the Lord delivered once again. Worship opened day 3 of the KLN Impact 2014 conference in Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania. Grace Chapel has been a fantastic host for the second year in a row. Willie & Rodi Longenecker, Canadian ministers of music, education, and pastoral work, added special music to the Friday session.

Allan and Rose Chambers have been missionaries from South Africa to the USA for over 20 years. They have a teaching and training ministry. Allan opened the teaching from Eph. 4:11-12. We need all the gifts in the church. The gifts need to be "married" in the Body of Christ. Each one has great value and purpose and is needed. An unhealthy church is when there is imbalance of the gifts.

Chinedum and Nkechi Uwaga of Brooklyn, NY were introduced as members of New Testament Fellowship, and ones who have a vision for leadership training and church planting in USA and Africa. Chinedum's text was on Naomi and Ruth.

Though Naomi's lineage was from the "wrong side", though she had great loss, though she was left without a home ...she was faithful, she was patient, and she received the blessings of God.

-Chinedum Uwaga.

Though Naomi's lineage was from the "wrong side", though she had great loss, though she was left without a home ...she was faithful, she was patient, and she received the blessings of God. Naomi was trusting in the Lord for many, many years and the Lord was faithful to hear her prayers.

The remainder of the morning was dedicated to testimonies. "Tremendous", "heart-felt", "profound", and "encouraging" were descriptive words used in response to hearing ministry reports from all the networks present. Hearts were stirred in hearing vision, outreach, and service to many areas.

Friday afternoon was a very special time of personal prayer times for individuals and couples with a prophetic prayer team co-led by Rose Chambers and Nkechi Uwaga. They were joined by their husbands, Allen and Chinedum, and also Vard Gainor, John Harris, and David & Katie Hoeflin. The 50+ people they personally spent time in prayer with were very blessed and encouraged.

David & Grace Kandole also led a corporate intercessory prayer time in the main sanctuary which was well received. Many led in voiced prayer.

After another fine meal by the Grace Chapel and LifeGate staff, there was lively and worshipful singing led by Katie Hoeflin and team ...and a birthday song for David Hoeflins' 26th. David & Katelyn pastor Faith Mountain Fellowship.

Sonya Penny, part of New Testament Fellowship, and LifeGate church of Elizabethtown, followed with her powerful testimony of growing up under a shadow of rejection and fear of man, and how God broke free to give her victory. He gave her a song in her heart and boldness to love and care for the hurting. Phil. 2:1-15 speaks to the religiousness of man. Pride, criticalness, and hopelessness are all attributes of religiousness. Comparativeness is a religious stronghold that ranks just as high as drug addiction.

Her father E. Daniel Martin responded with a passionate plea to all present to believe that each one of us is anointed. God sent his Holy Spirit to us, for us, and to anoint us. His journey through religion, his journey of comparing, his journey of seeing that his sin of preoccupation of goodness needed dealt with. His testimony of freedom from this was a glorious unfolding. He quipped he is now a member of Pharisees Anonymous. We are called to be defiant gardeners; we are called to plant in dark places and bring order and beauty. Lk. 10 says that we are to be sent out 2 by 2 like lambs among wolves ...with the trust that God shows up. God builds on truth. He desires our honesty. He desires our being relational. He desires our sharing our needs with one another. This led into a powerful time of confession, prayer, and worship with many coming forward to receive forgiveness, refreshment, and re-dedication.

A special thanks to all the worship teams comprised from many of the networks. And a special thanks to Ruth Martin for all the brochures and poster design and the many other travel details for the international guests.
